FREDERICK; OR, MEMOIRS OF MY YOUTH. Interspersed with Occasional Verse. In Two Volumes; price Twelve Shillings.

"At a time like the present, when the Town is almost surfeited with nauseous trash in Prose, and a measured something which calls itself Verse, it is quite refreshing to meet with a Work which aims at pleasing by Truth and Nature alone. Such a Work is the Novel now before us: it has a variety and interest in its incidents to keep alive the attention of the merest Novel Reader, &c.—It will be easy to see that the Author possesses considerable powers of observation and expression; that to a talent for Satire, he adds elegance and animation of style."—Critical Review, June 1811.

It is a circumstance neither honourable to our taste, nor to our national feeling, that an hundred years have elapsed since the Death of Dryden, (one of the greatest names in English Poetry,) without having furnished a COMPLETE EDITION of his WORKS. In the earlier part of the last century, it is possible that the general and unbounded admiration of Pope, and the School of Poetry which he founded, diverted the public attention from a Writer inferior in taste, though excelling him in genius; deficient in correctness, though far superior in energy of thought and diction. But as it is long since the public have looked back with a favourable eye on the Works of the ancient and powerful Poets of the seventeenth century, it is presumed that a Complete Edition of Dryden's Writings, comprehending his original Works, of every description, must now be considered as filling up a disgraceful blank in the literature of England.

The Text, in this publication, is given accurately from the best editions.

The Notes and Illustrations are such as have been dictated by the Editor's deep sense of the importance of the task.

This Volume concludes with the First Book of the Itinerary, and contains Fourteen Views of Castles, Abbies, &c. engraved by the late Mr. Byrne, in his best manner; Four small Maps, and Fourteen Plates, by Basire.

Volume the Second contains the Second Book of the Itinerary, and the Description of Wales, in Two Books, by Giraldus; a Supplement, in which the Places omitted by him are described; and an Essay on British Architecture; in which its progressive History is traced in so easy and perspicuous a manner, that, by the assistance of the annexed Plates, the Knowledge of its Principles and Formation may be acquired with certainty, and without difficulty. PROSPECTUS.

EARLY IN THE SPRING WILL BE PUBLISHED,

ILLUSTRATED

IN A SERIES OF ENGRAVINGS IN THE LINE MANNER,

BY W. B. COOKE,

FROM DRAWINGS MADE EXPRESSLY FOR THIS WORK,

BY THE FIRST MASTERS,

FORMING TWO VOLUMES, IN QUARTO

Published by William Miller, Albemarle-street; E. Lloyd, Harley-street; I. and A. Arch, and J. M. Richardson, Cornhill; and W. B. Cooke, York-place, Pentonville.

This Work is intended to represent, by a Series of Engravings, accompanied by appropriate Descriptions, the successive Features of the Southern Coast of England, from the Mouth of the Thames to the Severn.

When the Objects which this Design embraces are considered, the Beauty they display, and the numerous circumstances connected with their History, it is presumed, that the purposed undertaking will meet the support as well as the approbation of every lover of the Fine Arts.

It will be readily conceived that in so long a line of Coast, there must be much that will recommend itself to Purchasers of different Tastes. Less monotony of Scene cannot be imagined. The busy sources of our Commercial Wealth, the bold Cliffs by which the Island is encircled, the calmer Prospects of the Sea, the ruined Pile, and the Spot made sacred by some splendid Action, will all be represented in their turn; and should the Southern Outline meet the encouragement that is expected, the Work will be extended to the whole Circuit of Great Britain.

SOUTHERN COAST OF ENGLAND.

The Proprietors have every reason to believe, that their present preparations for the Work, justify a hope, that their future exertions cannot be doubted, when they name the following Artists who are engaged to make the Drawings.

Those for the Coasts of Kent, Sussex, and Hampshire, including the Isle of Wight, will be made by S. OWEN,—P. DEWINT,—W. HAVELL, —W. WESTALL, — G. ARNALD, A. R. A.—W. ALEXANDER, F. S. A.— and L. CLENNEL. They will extend from the Mouth of the Thames to Christchurch, comprehending a distance of near 300 miles.

The Drawings of the Coasts of Dorsetshire, Devonshire, Cornwall, North Devonshire, and Somersetshire, will be made by J. M.W. TURNER, R. A. from Original Sketches taken in the year 1811, extending from the Isle of Wight to the Mouth of the Severn, a distance of more than 400 miles. The whole will consist of fifty highly finished Engravings in the Line manner, of the most important and beautiful subjects. The Letter-press will also be enriched with thirty Vignettes, as Head and Tail pieces, representing Headlands, Ancient Reliques, Churches, Fragments, &c.

CONDITIONS.

One Part to be published every Quarter, containing Five highly finished Engravings in the Line manner,—and Three Vignettes, with Historical and Descriptive Accounts to each Subject.

MADAME DE STAËL'S

LONG-SUPPRESSED WORK

ON GERMANY.

On Saturday the 6th of November will be published, handsomely printed in 3 vols. 8vo. price 1l. 16s.

DE L'ALLEMAGNE,

PAR MAD. LA BARONNE DE STAËL HOLSTEIN.

THIS interesting work, whose mysterious suppression has so long excited the curiosity of Europe, consists of the result of Madame de Staël's Observations on the Manners, the Society, the Literature, and the Philosophy, of the GERMANS.

An edition, consisting of 10,000 copies, was actually printed at Paris in the year 1810; and although, in its course through the press, it was submitted to the Literary Police, the whole impression was suddenly destroyed, in consequence of the immediate mandate of BUONAPARTE. One copy, however, escaped, and from that the present edition is printing. It will contain all the passages originally struck out by the Censors of the Press; and a copious new preface, detailing the history of this curious and unprecedented literary persecution.

The work is otherwise valuable for its acute and lively remarks upon a people, with the present state of whose society and literature we are little acquainted, and who are peculiarly interesting at this time from the glorious part they are acting in the great drama of European politics.—It is known to be the most able work of an author who has already been designated "as, beyond all comparison, the firs female writer of the age."

An able Translation of this important work has been made, and is nearly ready for publication.

In attempting such a Work, the Author proposes to himself to write the Eulogy of our great Naval Hero; for the best Eulogy of NELSON is the faithful history of his actions; the best history is that which shall relate them most perspicuously.
